Welcome to the greatest week of the year, Masters Week. This is the only time when it is morally acceptable to skip work on Thursday and Friday to watch golf. The hallowed grounds at Augusta National will be hosting the 81st Masters and it is sure to be full of great golf, cause we all know that the Masters doesn't start till the back nine on Sunday.

This year we have Danny Willett trying to become the fourth player to successfully defend the Green Jacket.

This year's tournament has a bunch of story lines involved, first would have to be Jordan Spieth looking for redemption for his 12th hole collapse last year.

Then you have Rory looking to complete the career grand slam, the Green Jacket would accompany his British Open, US Open and two PGA Championships.

Then throw in Augusta rookie John Rahm who behind DJ is arguably the hottest player on the planet right now, having five top ten finishes in his last six starts.

But the biggest star heading into Augusta has to be the newly minted world number one Dustin Johnson, who has won his last three starts.

This Masters is shaping up to be one for the books, golf is the deepest its ever been and should provide for a fantastic Sunday showdown at Augusta National.
